THE BAHIA BLANCA RAILWAY INAUGURATION.

II.

The French colonists as yet are not fairly started, and yet what changes have they not effected since last October, when I visited Curumalan with Mr. Casey and Mr. Langworthy! It may interest some to know that Mr. Casey has sold 14 leagues to the 'empresario' of these colonies, on eight years' time, at a million paper dollars per league, and in the La France and other steamers the families are now arriving out, and the homestead farms are being surveyed and marked out for each family. To this we must add that the Provincial Government has expropriated four leagues for a Government colony, a town, etc., at the Alfalfa Station, so that before the year is out we shall have even more than the nucleus of a strong agricultural centre at these camps.

We emerge from the Curumalan fence before reaching the Alfalfa Station, and now from here to Bahia Blanca the appearance of the camps and the country changes. The lands from the Alfalfa Station to the Tornquist Station are very hard grass camps and have nothing of the smiling Curumalan undulations; neither are they so much stocked or settled on; but their rich black soil, which we see on all sides in the railway cuttings, proclaim them for agriculture, and we believe very few years will pass away before the whole line of camp from here to Bahia Blanca will be ploughed up and under wheat, maize and alfalfa. Bahia Blanca will prove a splendid market for their produce. Potatoes, onions, cabbages, and in fact all vegetables, are at present supplied from Buenos Ayres, and alfalfa is selling there at present at $2,000 m/c per ton!!

It rained hard all the afternoon, which made everything more dreary, and many of our friends betook to Truco, to beguile the tediousness of the railway car. There was nothing in the outstretched plain to interest the mind or to delight the imagination—no small rivulets from the mountain's pellucid waters, no opening glades to astonish Don Miguel with gamas and ostriches. Many of our friends dozed.

Suddenly we entered the Naposta Valley, and Mr. Salvador Gomez pointed away off in the distance to his estancia, 32 square leagues, wire fenced, with a frontage of seven leagues on the river. Splendid property. On all sides in this valley, as we neared Bahia Blanca, we saw vestiges of the recent inundations, the greatest ever known in these parts; dead sheep, calves and horses strewed the track. We saw the very 'puesto' beside the river where the woman with her child perished, and the men saved. The rain continued until we reached the Indian 'ranchos' outside the town of Bahia Blanca, and we could see from the train that the whole town was decked out with flags. The station was crowded with people, who cheered the train as we passed along through the bleak arid land that intervenes between the port and the town, and at last we arrived at close on 6 p.m. at the port terminus of Bahia Blanca, the end of our journey; the next moment Governor Rocha was in Mr. Parish's arms, embraced and welcomed, and realizing to the letter the prophecy of the British Isiah, who in 1882 said, that before May 1884, the Bahia Blanca railway would be finished, and that he would welcome the Governor from the train, in from Buenos Aires, at the very port of Bahia Blanca. There was much enthusiasm. Mr. Duggan and Mr. Eastman wanted to go down to the shore and have a look at the sea; the band played, rockets were fired off, and the very platform was giving way under the weight of so many people, when Mr. John Coghlan led the way to the banquet hall, in the carpenter's shop. Mr. Niebuhr and Dr Julian Fernandez followed; the trip to the sea was abandoned, the shades of a Bahia Blanca evening were falling fast, and we all tumbled into the 'galpon,' to find tables spread for from 3 to 400 guests. As we had all to wait dinner for our friends in the second train, there was a sharp appetizing pause of two hours, during which we gathered much useful information from Mr Allen, Director of the Southern Railway Telegraph Department, and Mr. Huxtable, Chief of the Goods Department. We missed on the scene our old friend, Mr George Cooper, the Gen. Manager of the line, who still suffers from a bathing accident, and whose absence on this great occasion was the sole alloy to the pleasures of the fete.

At last the whistle was heard, train arrived and in walked the passengers, seats for all. Mr Barker, the talented London Sec. of the Company, with Mr Todd, the popular Manager of the London and River Plate Bank, were the first to enter the 'galpon;' then followed Mr. John Drysdale, Mr. N. Bouwers, representative of Messrs Baring Bros., London, and Director of the Company, then Mr Neild, another director, then Mr W Thompson, Director of the Central Argentine Railway, Mr T Jones, new manager of the English Bank of the River Plate, Mr Roger, British merchant, Mr Rossignol, Bartolo Mitre Vedia, of Nacion, and a whole host of friends and subscribers entered so fast that we lost the count. The dinner held till 10 o'clock p.m.; happily there were no speeches, and as a special train was in waiting to take those who desired to the town of Bahia Blanca, many hurried off, but the majority remained to smoke their cigars and sleep in the train. We stood on the platform at midnight, inhaling the sea breeze from the bay, and discussing the fortunes of the Plate, and then turned in. Our companions were scattered, some gone up to the ball in the town, where 150 girls were assembled to dance all night till the broad day-light, others playing cards in the train, others smoking in the 'galpon.' The rain began again after midnight and held till near dawn. Don Miguel Duggan and Dn Ricardo Lezica, Director of National Bank, were the first up. Splendid baths were improvised for the guests, and as the tables were set in the 'galpon' for the grand banquet, we all took coffee in Mr. Roverano's kitchen; shoe-blacks from town polished our boots free. Our party then started for the mole and the sea, and here it was that in trying to cross the canal on a narrow Barlow rail, Mr Duggan slipped in and luckily only got into the mud, and had to change his trousers. A like accident happened in the evening to Messrs Bouwer and Thompson when coming from the town to the station; they slipped in the mud in Bahia Blanca is very profound and very insidious.

The railway mole and workshops, which we now visited, form in themselves a little world of their own. On all sides were goods, wares, machines, merchandize, bolts, bars, planks, rails and iron pillars. Here we met our old friend, Mr. Mackinlay, formerly comestible broker in town. We found ourself at the telegraph office, with the wires broken, but sat down and penned a 700 worded telegram, as the telegram clerk, Master Black, told us that the line would be repaired and the message sent on.

Messrs. Cadmus, Casey, Duggan and Dn. Salvador Gomez, Director of the National Bank, went down to the sea shore to see the steamers at anchor in the bay, the Sully and the Emperor, and to fish: Mr. Sewell was the only one of the whole party who caught any fish. Having finished our telegram we made a morning call on Madame Parish, who, with her children, and Mrs. Gardom and Mrs. Barker, occupy neat wooden cottages at the edge of the bay. With Messrs. Jones, Drysdale and Lezica, we visited the Port Captain, Colonel Cerri, who opened fire on us at once, at something published in the Standard about the coat of arms over his office door being blown down and up to the Andes. He showed us the "escudo," a piece of painted tin, dear at $20. We changed the unpleasant turn of the conversation by asking the Colonel for a maté, which was served by one of the orderlies, but Mr. Jones and myself were the only persons who took it. Col. Cerri gave us a graphic description of the late high tide, when the water rose over three feet in the very room where we were sitting. He complained of the want of a telegraph line to Monte Hermoso, at the head of the bay, and said that there was at present a ship aground out there, but no means of communication with her for want of a wire—Traslado al Gefe del Departmento de Telegrafo.]

Port Captain Cerri is a man of marked character and great intelligence; he says that Bahia Blanca is the land of excesses; everything, whether good or bad, comes by excess. The heat last summer was excessive, 112 Fahr. in the shade; the drought, the wind, the sand, the tide, prosperity, even misfortune, all when they visit Bahia Blanca are excessive. He threw open his 'Capitania' books and showed us the port returns for the last two years, which, as they may interest very many of our readers, we give as follows:—

2,430 passengers	1137
36 Coasting craft	26
53 Steamers	48
14 Foreign ships	9
87,665 Tonnage	30,977

First quarter's 'Capitania' returns 1884:—

9 Coast craft, 1000 tons, ent.
22 Steamers, 6200 tons, ent.
1460 passengers, etc.

Foreign vessels entered:—

Barque Verde
Richard Pearce, N. York.
Columbe and Matie.
Dambos
Samuel B. Hale.

Of these, four vessels arrived with general merchandize for the town and district of Bahia Blanca. Col. Cerri says the Custom House is being erected alongside, and the whole place is growing fast, but only for wooden houses, as none other can be built there, there being no foundations, and to dig foundations would cost more than to build the house; a place, similar to the Boca he thinks, will spring up in the locality, but everything is very fresh and very raw yet in Bahia Blanca. Alongside the 'Capitania' we saw a wooden butcher's shop; inscribed over the door is David Incolotti, Butcher.

Evidently the Italian butcher speaks English, and indeed, we may well say God help the man in Bahia Blanca who does not understand English. Returning from the Port Capitania, Mr. Drysdale and Mr. Lezica were saluted by a large tame guanaco, which at first surprised them into a retreat, but afterwards we were all charmed with the tameness of the beautiful animal. We met Mr. Moores and Governor Rocha on our way back; they were going down to the sea, but we hurried back to the train, to dress for the grand banquet, the full account of which, not to extend this chapter too much, we must reserve for our next. At the train we found our friends Duggan and Cadmus, again getting their boots polished, and we do believe the busiest parties all that morning in that assembled crowd were the Italian boot-blacks, brought down by the Company from B. Aires, and who charged the guests nothing for their work. Mr Goodlad, British Consul, Mr Muggeridge, ship-broker, Mr Black, importer and commission agent, and very many other friends arrived from the town. Messrs Fitzgerald and Boggs from La Gama, Mr Clark Jr., Mr Varela Jr., Mr Ford Jr., and many other gentlemen connected with the line were on the platform; in fact it was a gathering the like of which was never before witnessed in those parts. Colonel Donovan's fine band was posted in front and kept us all in good humour, waiting for breakfast, with its fine martial music. A phalanx of city waiters all dressed in the pink of fashion, lined the portals of the banquet hall; these waiters, appeared to us the best dressed men in the whole crowd. Mitre Vedia, of the Nacion, brigaded the members of the press and had special place at the tables set for us. I felt like a fish out of water in being compelled to leave Don Miguel Duggan, Mr. Casey and other 'compañeros' to take my seat alongside my colleague Operario Italiano, Porvenir, Bahia Blanca, &c.; but courtesy demanded the sacrifice, and we sat together, brothers, professional men, thinking of advertisements and subscribers, and whose report of the whole fete would be the best.

The vast superiority in this climate of wooden pavement over stone was seen yesterday: The streets paved with stone were full of mud, filth and stagnant water, whereas the two wood paved squares in Calle Suipacha were as clean as possible and merely damp after all the deluge of rain.

WRECK OF THE "RELIANCE"

Dear Standard.

The following extracts from a letter by a passenger of the American s.s. "Reliance," wrecked on 12th inst., near Bahia, 'en route' for New York, may prove of interest to those who had friends on board that ill-fated vessel:—

"Continuing her hitherto happy voyage, our magnificent ship left Bahia at 6.30 p.m., taking the inside passage; it would have been more prudent to take the outside, for it was very dark, and raining heavily."

"About an hour afterwards, and while we were at dinner, she struck with an awful shock, bringing everything on the table to the ground with a crash, and began to tremble so violently, that we were unable to stand without grasping our chairs, which fortunately were fixtures. Presently a second and more terrible shock filled us with consternation and despair, while the glasses and decanters from the racks overhead came tumbling and smashing about us, adding to the general consternation and dismay."

"The officers bravely trying to prevent a panic, shouted there was no danger, although it was not long before there were 9 ft. of water in the hold, and meanwhile we struggled to make the deck, an arduous undertaking, for she was lying on her side and we greatly feared would turn over; but with considerable difficulty I reached my room, situated on the upper deck, and putting on a life preserver and securing my pocket-book, hastened out, ready. Most of the passengers had done the same. We could then see that the ship's bows rested on a reef; her stern in deep water, though luckily not far from land."

"All this time it continued to pour as it only does in the tropics, adding to our discomfort, misery and distress, and in the midst of it, the life-boat was got ready, the ladies put into it, and it shoved off, being soon hidden from our view by the darkness. I was the last pitched into the second boat, which, owing to the heavy sea and powerful current, could make little headway, but finally, after hard work and great anxiety, we made land at the spot the life-boat had reached before us. Drenched to the skin, weary, and miserable, we started to look for shelter, which, after great delay we found, some of us at the Hotel de Paris whence I now write.

"Not having had time to burden myself with much clothing, I had to wait until what I had on had dried, before I could put in an appearance, and I then discovered that no lives had been lost and that there were no personal accidents to lament, though the ship is a total wreck.

"It was a pleasure to see the coolness and courage with which the ladies behaved; they were regular heroines, as they always are in trying circumstances.

"When I last saw Dr. Grace he was endeavouring to stand on the slanting deck of the lost steamer; he behaved nobly, contributed not a little to cheer us, and was the last passenger to leave the wreck."

LONDON LETTER.

(From our Own Correspondent.)

MORE GOSSIP.

March 28th.

In the Garmoyle breach of promise case the solicitors for the plaintiff and defendant are busy sparring in preliminary calls for affidavits, with a view to the administering of interrogatories. From what I hear from men at the bar, it does not seem so certain as it was once thought, that Miss Emily May Finney will get out of a jury anything like the damages sought. It seems to be a special point in these cases that there should be absolute pecuniary injury, past, present, or prospective. Now, as a matter of fact, Miss Fortescue, instead of suffering either pecuniarily or in reputation, has been well advertised by this business, and has been taken out of a third-rate position, as little more than a figurante at the Savoy, to fill a leading part in another theatre, where it is evident she is placed less as an actress than as a social lioness of the day. Her professional prospects are raised a hundred per cent., and there remains only blighted affections and all that, which are rarely considered as legally taxable in the estimate of damages, and, in her case, they would not be considered at all. The mere disappointment at not becoming a peeress in posse is not a legal and taxable injury.

The Belt case has taken a new and unexpected turn, and one which at first sight looks little creditable to Mr. Lawes, but before judging we have to know more about it. From a published correspondence between Mr. Lawes and Mr. Belt, it appears that the former, through his solicitor, Mr. Lewis, offered to pay Mr. Belt £5,000 within 48 hours to settle this action and Rankin's action, and all the costs therewith. If the offer was declined, Mr Lawes threatened to file a petition in bankruptcy, and he cruelly reminded Mr. Belt that he had no expectations from his father—Lawes sen.—who had hitherto stumped up. Mr. Belt replied that with the costs awarded he had to repay many generous frends who had assisted him, and that his own means were exhausted, and that, under the circumstances, he deliberately refused Mr. Lawes's proposal. Thereupon, Mr. Lawes's petition in the Court of Bankruptcy was filed forthwith!

What lawyers, and critics, and artists have felt,
Your Coleridges, Russells and Frosts,
Is that Lawes is a far better sculptor than Belt,
For he's chiselled him out of his costs.

It is a sad world. In the Divorce Court Lady Campbell presented a petition for judicial separation from her husband, Lord Colin Campbell, M.P. for Argyleshire, and, what is much more, the son of that devout Scotchman, anti-evolutionist, and author of "The Unity of Law in Nature," His Grace the Duke of Argyle. At the request of the petitioner's counsel the court was ordered to be cleared of everybody, including reporters. Mr. Russell submitted, on behalf of the petitioner, that it was one of those cases usually heard in camera. By which we conclude that the details of the case are too private for publication. Some of it, however, will surely leak through the walls of the court into the papers.

The verdict of the jury was in favour of the petitioner, Lady Campbell. Lord Lorne, the brother of the respondent, was in court to-day when the verdict was given. No one could have dreamt that the Campbells were coming into this medley of Cairnses, Coleridges, Marlboroughs and Aylesfords. They have, and God bless, I say, the Duke of Argyll; for, inasmuch as, whither the laird goeth, there also will he received his kith and kin; and whithersoever these enter, some of us, more sinning than the rest, may squeeze in likewise.

The Equateur's Mails.

London, April 5.

In the House of Lords yesterday Earl Granville, replying to a question from the Earl of Hardwicke, made a statement with respect to the Ministerial intentions regarding the position of General Gordon similar to that of Lord Hartington in the House of Commons on the previous evening. The Marquis of Salisbury, the Earl of Kimberley, Viscount Bury, and the Duke of Argyll were amongst the speakers.

In the House of Commons the Home Secretary gave notice that at a morning sitting on Tuesday he would explain the provisions of the Ministerial measure for the government of London. On the motion to go into Committee of Supply Mr. McCarthy called attention to the constitution of the Irish magistracy, and this subject occupied the greater part of the sitting.

Our Special Correspondent in the Soudan, who has arrived at Massowah, telegraphs from that place, under date April 1, that a message has been received from the Governor of Kassala stating that the Hadendova tribe are investing the city and are reinforced by the survivors of Osman Digna's followers. A heavy fire, he says, is kept up nightly and the situation is critical.

The Governor of Kassala, adds our Correspondent, pleads for British relief, and suggests that the troops should advance by the Beni Temer route, which is only a five days' journey, in preference to the Souakin and Tokar route, which is fifteen days' journey through the enemy's country. The tribes in the vicinity of Massowah are friendly, with the exception of the Hadendovas.

Our Berlin correspondent informs us that the Emperor's condition continues to improve so satisfactorily that his daughter, the Grand Duchess of Baden, will return to Carlsruhe to-morrow.

The Crown Princess of Germany, says our correspondent, will come to England next month, on a visit to the Queen.

The same correspondent states that Gustav Richter, the celebrated German painter, died at Berlin, on Thursday night, aged 61.

We learn that Colonel Chermside's battalion will proceed to Souakim to-day.

The White Cross Line steamer Daniel Steinmann, from Antwerp to New York, via Halifax, struck, on Thursday night, and sank off Sambro', about 20 miles from Halifax. Only nine men out of 140 persons on board had reached land.

A deputation from the Amalgamated Seamen's Protection Association waited upon Mr Chamberlain yesterday, with reference to the Merchant Shipping Bill. The right hon. gentleman, in reply, said it was his firm intention to adhere strictly to the two main principles of his measure, namely, that the shipowner should not be able to make a profit out of the loss of his vessel, and that the shipowner should be liable for the consequences of his negligence of the seamen's and officers' interests. On all matters of detail he should consider most willingly any suggestions from whatever quarter they might come.

Sir James Hannen, with a special jury, had before him yesterday the petition of the Earl of Euston, eldest son of the Duke of Grafton, for a dissolution of his marriage, on the ground that at the time of the ceremony his wife had a husband living. This was proved in the course of the hearing by the testimony of the first husband himself; but evidence was also given showing that at the time he married the present Countess of Euston his wife was alive. This therefore annulled the first marriage of Lady Euston, and rendered her union with the petitioner valid. The jury, under the direction of the judge, returned a verdict accordingly, and Lord Euston's petition was dismissed, with costs.

The stock markets yesterday were quiet in view of the settlement commencing on Monday. Home railway stocks declined ¼ to 1 per cent on realizations after the recent rise. Egyptian, Russian, French and Mexican closed firm at a small improvement. Anglo-American Telegraph issues receded on the announcement of the dividend. Mexican railway stocks rose 1 to 1¼ per cent. Consols remained at 102⅜, ½ for money, and 102½, ⅝ for the account. The Bank received £59,000 in gold. The Stock Exchange is closed to-day.

THE LATE DUKE OF ALBANY.

LANDING OF THE REMAINS.

Though much more striking as a spectacle than the funeral at Windsor to-day can possibly be, the proceedings of yesterday were peculiarly sad and solemn. They were also novel in character to the present generation at both Portsmouth and Windsor, and will not be soon forgotten by any who watched them. The weather was all that could be desired. At Portsmouth the people on the previous night had made up their minds for much rain, and the prospect until long after midnight was not reassuring. Yesterday morning, however, saw the sun shining bright and high, and fleecy clouds replacing the slate, coloured masses which at the time of the arrival of the Royal yachts on Thursday evening had formed up from the south-west.

The landing of the remains of the late Duke of Albany was a very touching incident in the numerous occurrences of the day. At an early hour a special train had brought from Waterloo to Portsmouth many Royal and distinguished persons, and the train arriving punctually, the programme previously prepared, sanctioned by the Lord Chanberlain, and approved by the Prince of Wales, was carried out in all essential particulars. Before nine o'clock troops and bodies of sailors were taking their allotted places on and near the south jetty of Portsmouth Dockyard, and the limited number of ladies and gentlemen admitted by ticket were punctually on the ground.

The official opening of the programme was signalised by the first minute gun, fired from the garrison battery at half-past nine o'clock. Thenceforth until our departure, and indeed until the train had passed the Hillsea lines, the loud-mouthed cannon marked the expiration of every minute. For half an hour the shore guns kept the time, and then those of the Duke of Wellington flagship took up the tale. Meanwhile the sun shone upon splendid uniforms grouped in fitful combinations; generals, admirals, attachés, officers of every grade and every branch of the service mingled, with plumes fluttering in the smart morning breeze, and spurs and sabres clanking on the hollow-sounding planks of the jetty. The Mayor and Corporation of Portsmouth—the Aldermen in bright scarlet robes trimmed with fur, and the mace, like the figure-head and ornaments of the Royal yacht, hidden by crape—lent no little colour to the scene; and near them stood a deputation of local Freemasons, honouring the remains of one who was a devoted brother of the mystic tie. The Roman Catholic Bishop of Portsmouth, with violet gassock and gloves proclaiming his ecclesiastical rank, was also in a place of honour near the sable pavilion, with which the equally sable gangway communicated.

All eyes were constantly turned in the direction of the Osborne upon whose deck might be seen the Prince of Wales, Prince Christian, the Duke of Cambridge, and Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar, in the scarlet uniforms so familiar to the English eye; the young Prince Albert Victor and Prince Louis of Battenberg, in those of lieutenants in the navy; and the crown Prince and Prince Louis of Hesse, in Prussian military garb. So far it was a brilliant spectacle, into which the funeral element had not actively entered. Everyone wore somewhat of mourning; the white ensigns and Royal standard on board the Osborne, and elsewhere, danced at half-mast.

The Royal personages had now, at a quarter-past ten, entered the mortuary saloon on the Osborne's decks; while a small crowd of officers and equerries stood uncovered at the entrance. A corporal's guard of marines had marched out with a tread as of one man, and faced the pavilion on the jetty, bayonets fixed. Soon from the mortuary saloon issued the Chaplain, in white surplice and book in hand; following him, there marched out with slow step a dozen of the petty officers of the Royal Yacht, bearing a heavy burden. Though it was concealed beneath a large silken Union-Jack, we knew full well that the moment had come when Prince Leopold's body was to rest once more upon English soil. The minute gun seemed just then to be repeated by divers echoes; the officer in command on the jetty sternly gave the word "Seaforths, present arms," and a quick clash responded; the ship's bell tolled mournfully; and with sweet softness, the band of the North Lancashire Regiment, stationed somewhere in the rear of the platform, played Handel's immortal "Dead March." Yet above the muffled drums and thrilling cadences could be heard the clear voice of the Chaplain saying "I am the resurrection and the life;" and the guns seemed to boom a solemn amen to the recitation. Thus the coffin was taken across the gangway, through the pavilion, into the railway car, and placed there upon low supports. In the harbour the yards were manned, and the guards of honour on every hand saluted.

The quarter of an hour lost at starting was made up eventually. The first stoppage was at Weybridge, where, through the divergence of route and change of engine, the funeral car, which had been in the rear, was now to the front. The next stoppage was at Staines, and here the car assumed its original position. Quickly after this change was made Windsor Castle came in view, the Royal Standard waving freely from its tower being the only flag seen throughout the day that was not placed half-mast. We had left Portsmouth Dockyard at half-past ten o'clock, and slowed into Windsor station at half-past twelve.

Her Majesty, accompanied by the Princess of Wales, the Princess Christian, and the Princess Beatrice, arrived privately by the road leaning to the lodge on the Datchet road, and, effectually screened from the public gaze by the troops, passed into the waiting room a few minutes before the arrival of the train. The train steamed slowly into the station, so that the saloon carriage in which the Prince of Wales was could be drawn up exactly opposite the appartment in which the Queen awaited him. Her Majesty met her son at the doorway, but was seen for an instant afterwards as she walked towards the carriage, and, after saluting Prince Albert, Victor and other members of the Royal Family, retired with downcast eyes, without venturing at this trying moment to give one glance in the direction of the funeral car.

Seen from the distance, the ceremony of opening the car had a most striking effect. The doors, thrown widely back, appeared like the great black wings of some monster bird, the opening of which suddenly disclosed the most brilliant under plumage. This effect was due to the sudden movement forward of the scarlet-jacketed bearers and their return from the interior of the car with the coffin enveloped in its brightly-coloured pall—the silk Union-Jack. The coffin was slowly borne down the platform by one-half of the bearers, the others escorting and relieving when required. Taken into the waiting-room the coffin was halted there but a brief moment, while, for Her Majesty, a wreath of choicest camelias was placed upon it. When all was ready for the start the Queen proceeded to her carriage—a closed vehicle, to which were harnessed four greys, and which was preceded by outriders. With her Majesty rode the Princess of Wales, the Princess Christian and the Princess Beatrice, the equerries attending on horseback. There was only one other carriage conveying the ladies in attendance. The Prince of Wales and other members of the Royal Family and their attendants preferred to follow the procession on foot.

The moment the gun-carriage began to move, a roll of muffled drums from the Seaforth Highlanders band impressively signalised the event, which was further notified to the front part of the procession by a few bars of the plaintive Scotch melody, "The land o' the leal." The massed bands in front then moved off to Chopin's Funeral March, preceded and followed by a part of the Cavalry escort. The Artillery followed.

On the right side of the coffin walked the Marquis of Lorne, the Prince of Waldeck-Pyrmont and Prince Christian, and on the left side Prince Louis of Battenberg, Prince Albert Victor and the Duke of Cambridge;

Immediately following the coffin walked the Prince of Wales between the Crown Prince of Germany on his right and the Duke of Hesse on his left. The bay charger of the late Prince, led by a groom in scarlet livery, was immediately behind. Then followed the detachment of Seaforth Highlanders who had acted as bearers. The carriages with the Queen and Princesses and the ladies in attendance came next in order. These were followed by the Lord Chamberlain and other Court officials, with Dr Royle, the late Prince's medical attendant, his private secretary, and other members of his household. Another portion of the escort followed, and the rear was brought up by the guard of honour of the Seaforth Highlanders, who marched in lines extending the whole width of the street, shoulder to shoulder and with arms reversed. The procession wending its way up the hill was a picturesque and solemn spectacle, which deeply moved the crowd. Hats were taken off as the coffin passed, and until the Queen's carriage had gone by. It was remarked that her Majesty bore the ordeal with bravery. The music of the massed bands was deeply impressive. From time to time the theme was changed from Chopins' March to that of Beethoven—twenty-four paces to the roll of the drum impressively marking the change. None but a favoured few were suffered to enter through Henry VIII.'s Gate into the Lower Castle Yard after the procession. While the body was being conveyed into the Albert Chapel the bands continued to play for a little while, and minute guns were heard in the distance. A service, attended only by the Queen and the members of the Royal Family, was conducted by the Dean of Windsor. It consisted of hymns and prayers selected in consultation with the Dean by the Princess Beatrice. This short service over, the soldiers were marched back to quarters, and the Prince's remains left for interment in the morning. The Corporation of Windsor awaited the procession at the market cross, and walked with it to Henry the Eighth's Gateway. The flowers that came from Cannes and many fresh wreaths were brought up from the station in a closed van, and for the whole of the afternoon the Dean of Windsor was engaged in arranging the wreaths in the chapel, which is now a perfect garden of exotic flowers.

THE SOUDAN CAMPAIGN

FINDING WATER.

The special correspondent of the Standard, after describing the earlier details of the march, says:—"In a gully we came upon a tiny running brook, rippling and bubbling over its pebbly bed—a welcome and delightful sight in this parched and desolate land. The horses quickly scented the water, and could hardly be restrained from rushing straight at it, so eager were they to quench their long thirst. Among the infantry, discipline was strictly maintained while the men took their deep draughts in turn and filled their water bottles. There were numerous signs of cattle every-where, but the beasts had driven away to the mountains, whither Osman Digma had probably followed them. The mounted infantry made during the morning splendid shooting, promptly showing to the fanatics that Osman Digma's charms continue ineffectual. Lieutenant Davin shot one man on a camel at a full thousand yards' range, while the condition of the stones from behind which the enemy had fired showed very sufficient reasons for their prompt retreat. On one of these boulders I counted 28 bullet marks, and on another 16, although the distance from which these shots were fired was over 600 yards. The British soldier seems to have a special genius for mounted infantry work. Here, as in South Africa, and in the former Egyptian campaign, the men have, after very little practice, become splendidly efficient.

THE RETURN TO SUAKIN.

The return march from the burning village began at a few minutes after one. All the troops expected to reach Suakin to-day. They have performed a most disagreeable task loyally, bravely and well. "To the Indian regiments especially," says the Daily News, "it will be a heartfelt relief to say good bye to this loathsome land I have ridden in from Tamanieb, and find that the whole distance of twenty-two miles is as safe as and quieter than Hyde Park. Not a mouse is stirring. As for the Berber road, I believe it to be perfectly safe. Any merchant to whom the idea occurs of loading a camel with Birmingham goods and long cloth, and sending somebody to lead the animal across the desert, can prove this to his own satisfaction. This morning I saw a few Arabs full under our fire. It is a pity that so brave a race should be so punished for what in their view is nothing else but a commendable revolt against a race which is as cruel as it is weak and tyrannical. A dozen Englishmen could easily govern the Eastern Soudan, but the Egyptians never. The Sheikh Mahomed Ali, whose name has already been before the English public, is busily engaged in collecting men for the journey to Berber, which the native population hope that Major Chermside will lead or accompany. But the road is perfectly safe. Any camel driver can accomplish it. The backbone of Digma's rebellion is utterly broken, so far as resistance to the English troops is concerned. What we have now to provide for is that the Soudani Arabs shall be allowed to govern themselves in their own way, without interference by a weak and corrupt race of Egyptians. If the quarrel were merely between the English and the Arabs it would not last five minutes. The Soudanis draw a great distinction between the English and what they call the white faced Egyptians. They hate the latter. The former, in spite of history and of the recent battles, they profoundly respect, and all the more in consideration of the humane treatment which the wounded prisoners have received at our hands."

EDITOR'S TABLE

Persons and things in general looked a trifle drier yesterday, although the sky's appearance showed that there is more rain where the deluge of Sunday and Monday came from. The downpour appears to have been general, both in this province and Santa Fe. From all quarters there is the same story of floods and damage. The new capital of the province is in a pitiable state—several private houses downand the whole place turned into a huge 'pantano.' At San Antonio de Areco the river overflowed and flooded several houses. In fact the same occurred nearly all over the camp, and our bucolic colleague the Campaña reports heavy losses of sheep in all directions. It must not be forgotten that, when Dr. Gould was pestered some months ago to account for the "glorious sunsets" and all that nonsense, he distinctly said that the cause was vapour, and that it would come down in tremendous rain early in Autumn. No other Astronomer, Royal or Republican, in any country hit the nail on the head so accurately.

Those interested in our foremost charitable institution—the British Hospital—are reminded of the meeting called for this evening, and earnestly requested to attend, as matters of much importance are on the card for discussion. We, therefore, trust to see a full attendance.

The French steamer Equateur brings European dates from Lisbon to 9th inst. and London papers of 5th, for which we are indebted to our friends Messrs. Dewey & Co. The fall of Khartoum and Gordon's capture are confirmed. The French Socialists are again putting themselves 'en evidence.' The Tonkin campaign is considered over, and the return of the troops to France will be the next move. Monsieur is well out of the business, thanks to that queer being John Chinaman having no backbone. (We wish the Mahdi and Osman Digna were of the same physical formation). The Dublin police discovered a plot to blow up Mountjoy prison and liberate the inmates. An awful shipwreck is reported off Halifax. The steamer Daniel Steinmann foundered, and 119 persons, out of 181 on board, perished. We give the general news in another column.

The Minister of War started yesterday morning for Uruguay, to open the Exhibition there.

We are very sorry to hear that our distinguished colleague General Meyer of the Libertad, is very unwell. We sincerely hope he will not be long so.

Numbea 10,165 won the 10,000 Nats prize in yesterday's Lottery.

We beg to thank Mr. Thomas Gibson, in the name of the Irish Orphange, for the generous donation he sent us yesterday for that instution—fifty National Dollars.

We feel great pleasure in welcoming home Mr. J. Antonio Fernandez, jun., who has just arrived, in the Equateur, from an extended tour in Europe, including the whole of fair Italy. He says that Old Europe is a first-rate place.

The official report of the city's health for the past fortnight says that the atmospheric changes during that period have been so violent that all diseases have increased in intensity.

THE DANGER OF DELAY. Few diseases progress so rapidly as those affecting the throat, chest and lungs, which latter are composed of the most delicate tissues in the human body. It can therefore be easily understood why it is necessary to avoid delay, the slight cold of yesterday may be the convulsive cough of to-day, which in its turn may produce the rupture of the delicate veins of the bronchial tubes to-morrow, from whence will come bleeding and despair. Knowing these facts we hasten to call the special attention of the suffering public to the great remedy for all such diseases, viz., our Pectoral of Anacahuita, a preparation purely vegetable, in its nature soothing, healing and strengthening, easily carried by the absorbments to every part of the throat, chest and lungs, it specially effects cures even when all hope seems past. One spoonful of Lanman & Kemp's Pure Cod Liver Oil mixed with two of Pectoral is the way to obtain the best results in the shortest period of time.

Cedulas A	100½
Cedulas E	89⅜
Cedulas F	85⅜
National Bank Shares	138¾
Nat. Bank Certificados	52

Bolsa business ruled very dull this morning, and the general aspect of affairs was even more quiet than yesterday. The main feature of the market is the plethora of money thrown on the Bolsa; in no former month has there been so much money offered, or so little interest displayed by speculators to secure same. Discounts are easy at 7 and 7½, and Government Bills are daily quoted at this rate; a large discount business was rumored yesterday between 6½ and 7 o/o; money is becoming cheaper every day, and all look forward to low rates next month and much lower ones in winter. The position of the speculative market has been eased by this abundance of capital, and large amounts have been secured on Cedulas at 9, 8, 7½ and 7 o/o, according to conditions and amounts; but operators in shares have not moved; those who have bought heavily shew no inclination to sell nor to secure money, and the situation is abnormal, when we consider that the market is on the eve of the liquidation. The settlement will be a small affair and little or no interest is shewn with regard to the up-shot of to-morrow's operations—an unerring sign of the dull tone and limited speculations that have prevailed during the month.

The Scrip of the National Bank advances with much buoyancy, quite independent of the dull tone and dropping quotations of the paid-up shares. The demand for Certificados is growing; sellers meantime, are few and holders ask now for high prices. Thus to-day there were buyers at 52, but holders asked 53 and 54; an operation was rumored last night at 53 for May. Some rumors have been spread that efforts will be made to make the full payment of the Certificados optional in the month of July; but this rumor is generally treated as a speculative move to push the Scrip and depress the paid-up stock, although there are some who agree that the paid-up shares would maintain their actual high quotations in spite of the new stock that would thus be thrown on the market.

Four hundred shares only were sold for the end of the month; rates opened at 139 and closed at 138¾. No operations were noted for the end of next month, Cedulas ruled much more active than shares; the Bank broker entered the ring this morning and bought freely for the end of next month. Letters from Genoa state that the Series E is in demand in that market and considered well worth 94 o/o

A few thousand Series A were sold this morning at 100½ for cash and 100⅜ for to-morrow; 85,000 Series E were sold for to-morrow at 89⅜, and 150,000 were sold for May at the same rate. Series F opened at 85½ and closed at 85⅜ for cash and to-morrow.

The exchange market shews no alteration; more activity is expected to-morrow and Thursday, when the Italian steamer Orione will leave. There are more drawers in the market, but rates are unaltered. Exchange on Montevideo rules flat; the quotation is now 1¼ premium, little doing.

Passengers per Equateur arrived to-day; they state that they had a most pleasant voyage out, the sea as smooth as a mirror from Bordeaux to Maldonado point. The Equateur was crowded and brings a large cargo of wine and merchandise for this port.

Mr. Abreu's fine map of the bay of Bahia Blanca was put up on the Bolsa to-day and crowds studied the surroundings of the rising district and the entrance of the port, which is not very easy and therein resembles its prototype—that of Liverpool. It is indeed remarkable to witness the general interest taken in the advance and in everything connected with Bahia Blanca. Although the excursionists are not very enthusiastic over their experience of three days they all agree that the place has a great future.

The profits of the Lloyd Argentino for last month amounted to no less than $65,000; this is a fabulous figure when we consider that the capital of the company is only one million patacons. If the monthly profits of the enterprise continue in this ratio the dividend of the year will be nearly equal to the capital.

The following were the sales at the ring during official hours:—
Cedulas—
For cash A 2,000 at 100½
For April 30th A 10,000 at 100⅜
For April 30th E 85,000 at 89⅜
For May 31st E 160,000 at 89⅜
For cash F 16,000 at 85½-⅜
For April 30th F 19,000 at 85½-⅜
Sales, 292,000
National Bank Shares—
For April 30th 400 at 139-138¾-⅞
We see by our London advices per Equateur that Money has a very favorable and long article on the Argentine Republic, prompted by the success of the National Bank loan. There is a move afloat in London to petition the Argentine Government to convert the Hard Dollar Loan into a 5 o/o stock. The question was being discussed with the Argentine Minister in London.

The late heavy rains have interfered with the trains, occasioning lengthy delays in some instances. The new double track of the Southern Railway is very loose, and travellers to Lanus and Temperley last night were detained several hours.

Mr A. O. Lumb was welcomed on 'Change and enveloped in friends, delighted to see him after so many years absence. Mr Lumb has been nine years absent; great changes have taken place during his absence. The whole market welcomes him back to the Plate.

The land business continues in a very dull and neglected condition; although there are crowds inspecting the maps on the Bolsa every day very few operations are reported. To-day 1½ league of land in 25 de Mayo sold for 750,000 $/; seller Mr Galindez.

Messrs Green and Johnson, the leading shipbrokers, have chartered the Italian barque Celestina, to load tallow in the Uruguay at 32s 6d.

A cargo of hides from Casa Blanca reported sold at reserved rates.

The arrivals of wool in the Once and South Plaza, although very limited, were larger than in the last few days. If any thing, there is a little more firmness in prices, and a fine lot is reported sold in deposit at a high price. Transactions are few and much indifference prevails in the market.

The Ilios leaves to-morrow, and the Mydilene the day after; both take full cargoes of wool and cereals.

The Lemnos arrived to-day; she goes up to Rosario.

The Mozart will leave San Nicolas to-morrow morning; she loaded up rivers 10,000 bags of wheat, and 600 bales of wool; she will fill up in this port.

Freights shew no change in rate, although there is a somewhat better feeling in the market; 12½ all round continues to be quoted per bale.

Mr Cibils has obtained an important contract from the French War Office, to supply preserved meat to the French army. Our colleague, El Diario gives the news.

Mr. Pommez, has again taken charge of the leading firm of Lasalle, so well and favourably known in this market.

Mr. E. Madero, arrived this morning in the river; he was welcomed by a crowd of friends.

The share market ruled firmer during afternoon hours and about one thousand shares were sold; there was much more activity than in the morning; the market closed at 139 for to-morrow, between buyers and sellers the general opinion is that to-morrow's liquidation will close about this price. The scrip was in steady demand at 52; an operation was effected at 53 for the month of May, leaving the buyer option to ask for the stock up to the end of the month. Cedulas ruled a little firmer also; about 50,000 were sold for May at 89½ and a few thousand changed hands for to-morrow at 89¾.

Fair amounts of Government Bills have been discounted to-day and yesterday at 7½ per cent.

Minister Plaza, owing to slight indisposition, has been unable to attend business of late. The market hopes he will soon recover. A good deal of business awaits his signature at the Finance Office.

From the Plaza Once de Setiembre we have the following:—
103 waggons arrived with produce.
The arrivals were:—
3,200 @ of wool
2,756 bags of wheat
1,668 bags of maize
253 bales of hay
and much other produce.
Little more business done. Prices of produce without variation.
The sales were—

EDITOR'S TABLE.

The French residents have quietly done what we have over and over again advocated should be done by our community: They have formed a French Immigration Protection Society with the following well-known gentlemen as a Committee:—Leon Walls, Presidente—Dr. Aubin, Vice-Presidente—N. Cornet, Tesorero—N. Geneau, Secretario—N. Taverne, Pro-Secretario. We expect that this new Society will be the means of giving a powerful impulse to French emigration to the River Plate.

The billiard-saloon keepers of the city are in a quandary. Their customers give them so much trouble that they have petitioned the Municipality to draw up a Billiard Code for them. What a rum idea! The collective intellectuality of the B.S.K's would fit on the head of a pin. Let them draw up a Code themselves. What do the Municipality know about billiards? Perhaps there is not an Alderman of the lot who could make two easy cannons to save his life.

The papers say that the rain storm of Sunday and Monday so melted the earthworks on the Pereyra and Temperley branch lines to La Plata that it is dangerous for trains to pass over them.

Mdme Perez takes her benefit tonight in the Alegria Theatre. The performance is dedicated to that distinguished Argentine lady, Mrs. Eduardo Mansilla de Garcia, and we understand ncludes some great novelty. The Alegria is one of our most highly patronised theatres.

Don Antonio Fantin was relieved of his pocket-book yesterday whilst in a tramcar of the City of Buenos Aires Co. His loss, which consists principally of some precious stones therein contained, is estimated at one hundred and twenty nationals.

The Deputies' attempt to hold a session in La Plata resulted in a signal failure. Another big minority, consequently no quorum, of course no sitting. Wind and weather on the square, the Provincial Senators will make a like attempt to-day, but we hope with more success.

The Municipality wish to stop any further purchase of paving stones in England, and for this reason the Minister of Hacienda has been asked to telegraph to that effect to the Argentine Minister in London, Mr Garcia. We hope this is a prelude to an extensive contract for wooden paving. In he end it must come to this.

As the 'vigilantes' getting off the tramcars never by any chance make even an appearance of taking care, they are subject to mishaps. Yesterday one of the 'gremio' nearly smashed his head against the footway and had his leg crushed to pieces by the wheels.

A smart swindler threw his employers and the police off the track by means of a letter to the former in which he announced his intention of committing suicide. Meanwhile he quietly disappeared with 40,000 m/c that was not strictly his own.

The well known "mirador de Almeyra, at the Cinco Esquinas, was all but demolished on Sunday by lightning. The cupola was sent spinning, but, fortunately, nobody was hurt by the debris.

The Republica declares that the Alvear Grotto at the Recoleta is now a Home for Rats, some of them a foot long. They eat all the grain intended for the ducks and other birds on the lake, and it was then put out of their reach, whereupon their ratships fell on the ducks themselves, and reduced their numbers considerably. The Lord Mayor intends to start a colony of fifty cats near the lake, but we would recommend his Lordship to try terriers instead.

An old soldier died last week in Paraguay, aged 88, and on his death bed revealed the spot where the Dictator Lopez buried a large amount of treasure shortly before he fell at Aquidaban. All the world knows by this time that buried treasure is a form of madness peculiar to Paraguay, where every man, woman and child is more or less a Whang the Miller.

The Lord Mayor has given the Inspector of Street Sweeping what is colloquially called a "blowing up," for the dirty state of the principal streets Until sweeping machines are introduced, the streets cannot be kept clean. It makes strangers grin to see our scavengers at work here with bits of brooms only suitable for cleaning patios.

THE NORMAL COLLEGE BLIND CHOIR IN BRUSSELS.

CONCERT BEFORE THE KING AND QUEEN.

Brussels, March 25th.

Colonel Richardson Gardner's continental tour with the pupils of the Royal Normal College for the Blind began this afternoon by a concert given at the Palace by command of his Majesty. Of all the distinguished guests the English and American Ministers and the Director of the Conservatoire seemed to take the most active interest. At the close of the performance the King and Queen came forward, and in the most enthusiastic language expressed their pleasure at the artistic performance. Their Majesties declared that they would take an early opportunity of visiting an institution which could produce such results. By command the soloists were presented, and each warmly thanked. Where all did so well it is scarcely possible to give precedence, but Miss Campbell and Mr. Hollins may be specially mentioned. By this tour Colonel Gardner will do much for the blind, but we predict that he will do far more for English music. Such a rendering of English madrigals and part-songs has rarely ever been heard. If English composers wish to popularise their music they should secure the services of such a choir. The programme included works of Farrant, Gibbons, Morley, Wilbye, Benet, Sterndale Bennett, Macfarren, Sullivan, Clay, and others. The next concert will be at the Singakademie at Berlin on Monday, the 31st. The audience will be present only by invitation of her Imperial Highness the Crown Princess of Germany

Todo el mundo conoce ya la citada seccion por ser una de las mejores por sus ricos y abundantes pastos y buenos aguadas, y la prueba es que hoy dia es la mas poblada de todas las secciones, siendo los principales pobladores los Sres. Antonino Cambaceres, Newton, Tornquist, Jaime Cibils, Pedro Sanbidet, Drysdale y muchos otros cuya lista seria larga á detallar.

Para los que duden del valor de las tierras, les aconsejamos que lean los diarios de Nueva Zelandia (Auckland) y Australia, donde campos como estos se venden á 5 patacones el area, que equivalen a 34000 $ treinta y cuatro mil patacones la legua cuadrada, y podran ver que los campos se venden alli hasta 12½ millones la legua.

Ademas les recordamos las ultimas ventas de la Oficina de Tierras de lo Provincia donde se han vendido campos en pocas condiciones y distante 130 leguas de un puerto, a 340000 $ legua.

No queremos insistir en mayores demostraciones sobre el porvenir de las tierras de este pais: cada uno debe saber lo que hace.

La venta de estas 10,000 hectareas es sin base y por lo que dicen, y las condiciones ventajosas para el pago.
